MASSACHUSETTS
DISPUTE
RESOLUTION SERVICES

Attorney Brian R. Jerome was born in Bridgeport, Connecticut and is a 1972 graduate of Assumption College in Worcester, Massachusetts. He is a 1980 magna cum laude graduate from New England Law in Boston, Massachusetts. He thereafter worked as an attorney at Parker, Coulter, Daley and White in Boston and later was in private practice with other associates focusing on matters of civil litigation and trial, and he represented both plaintiffs and defendants.

In 1991 Attorney Jerome founded Massachusetts Dispute Resolution Services (MDRS), one of the first full service ADR firms in Massachusetts. MDRS has grown to include a professional panel of over 30 neutrals, including retired justices and attorneys, that provides out of court mediation and arbitration services to private individuals, attorneys, business and the insurance community.

Since 1991 Attorney Jerome has served exclusively as a mediator and arbitrator and has handled over 7000 cases involving a wide array of subject matter, including civil litigation, personal injury law, wrongful death, automobile and UM cases, medical and legal malpractice, construction, property, first party property and casualty reference hearings, products liability, premises, real estate, government, business, commercial, employment, sexual abuse, probate and complex multi party litigation.

Brian is a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association and its ADR Standing Committee and serves as a court approved conciliator in Massachusetts Courts. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Essex County Bar Association. He lives with his family in Marblehead, Massachusetts.
